

Megan McAvoy

Mentor: Miranda Wilhelm

Title: Student Perceptions of a Barrier Bandage for Immunization Administration

A twelve question data collection tool was developed to conduct an anonymous written survey of third professional year student pharmacists enrolled in the Infectious Disease Prevention and Immunization Training Course. The survey contained questions asking student pharmacists about their perceptions of the ease of use and safety of the barrier bandage. Prior to completing the survey, student pharmacists administered two intramuscular injections using standard injection technique; one using the barrier bandage and the other using a traditional bandage.